Educational Technology for Administrators is a hybrid professional learning group that provides both face-to-face and online content to support educational leadership in our students' technological world. For this professional learning group, school leaders will review best practices and cutting-edge technology. Group members will also develop technology skills and strategies to better support their teachers and improve student achievement. Participants will take an in-depth look at collaboration with a focus on online tools. Group members will work together on a joint project involving the use of 21st century collaboration tools and explore best practices for school web design in order to communicate more effectively with community stakeholders.

The Alabama Technology in Motion Specialist will facilitate three professional learning group meetings, and participants must attend all meetings and participate in all online activities. In addition to attending group meetings members will meet online to complete technology explorations, digital readings and participate in discussion forums. Each administrator must complete an action plan for each face-to-face meeting topic.
